

Worth Wondering

Bronze Radio Return

Four long years
I don't know where I've gone but I'm awake now, so withdrawn like pennies on the beach king kills pawn
no one sheds a tear life goes on and the world gets colder every year and you decide when you come and go And you kept me wondering if you'll let me know and I've waited in the shadows down below and you've kept me wondering if it's worth wondering

and you've kept me wondering if it's worth wondering
and you've kept me wondering if it's worth wondering

all my thoughts, crowd my head and sweat inside my mind perspiration drips and waters down the time like sea glass tumbling all your dreams, lost among the wind Get trapped inside my net and I'll place them, in the sauna in my head where they'll melt together there

And you left me wondering if you'll let me know and I've waited in the shadows down below
and you've kept me wondering if it's worth wondering
