Buck-O-Nine

in all the water she said to me She said to me I'm sorry In all the water she said to me She said to me its alright All that I could say And all that I could do Wasn't enough to convince her Of what I thought I knew Then all her words started to sound the same Started to sound the same as water Yeah all her words started to sound the same Started to sound the same as BLAH BLAH BLAH She talked about some future plans And why our friendship had to end But it wasn't enough to change my mind About what I thought I knew I'm so confused And now I'm dealing with All the water in my head
