

Miles Away

Buried In Verona

10 thousand miles away and I'm wounded, disheartened, I wish you home to stay, now I'm left drained on display, would you give it all,

would you give it all up for me,
and i know it's cold, but I freeze when your not next to me.

It's loneliness that makes the loudest noise;
I search for silence day by day,
only time will tell if anything has changed,

It's getting harder to glance out at the sea,
no walls to stop us,
just a chance and our destiny,

As I make your winter mine, I'm faced with it, now brace for it, just a matter of time before we run out of time, and I'd give it all, I'd give it all up for you, and I know its cold, but I freeze when I'm not next to you,

If we're finished then bring me the colt,

It's loneliness that makes the loudest noise;
I search for silence day by day,
only time will tell if anything has changed,

It's getting harder to glance out at the sea,
no walls to stop us,
just a chance and our destiny,

This frostbite on my heart and the blisters on my hands start to slowly fade away as I start to say your name,

This frostbite on my heart and
the blisters on my hands start
to slowly fade away as
I start to say your name,

I'd never walk away;
I would never walk away from you,
From you,
I'd never walk away;
I would never walk away from you,
From you,
I'd never walk away;
I would never walk away from you,
From you,
I'd never walk away;
I would never walk away from you,

From you,
From you!
