

Silver Rain

Cadaveria

The children of my thoughts are running
Away naked up to the hill
Your seeds will sprout inside me to enjoy new Springs together
My mind is clear I carry no weight, no pain on my shoulders
Your seeds will sprout inside me to enjoy new Springs together.
I merge with the sun and I dance
I open my arms to caress this Silver Rain
I merge with the sun and I dance
I open my arms and I start breathing again.
Finally I listen to the murmur of my dreams
Another woman is giving birth to me again through life
Pain had come to show me the way
It pierced me like a lightning that crystallizes over time.
Black melting away through the pores of my skin.
I saw the diamond cobra dancing in the green ether
I saw my blond baby smile, I climbed lightly among the clouds
And then into the sea at dusk swimming with the dolphins.
I took my little white-dressed me by hand to dry her tears.
I open and thank you four times four.
I merge with the sun and I dance
I open my arms to caress this Silver Rain
I merge with the sun and I dance
I open my arms and I start breathing again.
I merge with the sun and I dance
I open my arms to caress this Silver Rain
I merge with the sun and I dance
I open my arms and I start breathing again.
