

Anastasis

Callisto

See a tattered being in the mirror.
Once so whole, inviolable.
Marveling why it appears.
Her fragile essence shattered into pieces in that revolting moment.
His fears now prevail her petty life.
Suffocated wails demanding to be unleashed.
The sovereign unites all the pieces back in place.
Someday she will see herself complete again.
Burst splinters of the reflection sparkling wondrous light.
So the one bears serenity.