

Coming out of the dark the beast, it rears its head walking onto the soft white, its lunar quest begins an invasion of truth to walk the land alone stepping out of the moral slide instinct is now its home and its on, its on the man is now the wolf and I have changed form to live as winters evening birth stepping into the cold as gore drips from my fangs walking into the moonlight, onto the snowy plains I have waited so long to feel this alive and its all that is real to me, on this winter night