Cave In

and we continue to chase the sun only to burn up both our hands and we will find out what's to know... in warning winds the truth will blow

you might find I'm feeling all the guilt dragging out the hours, all decieved both are harmless and haunting to me now remember your heroes as a cancel out zero like you were young again a man you haven't seen in years ressurecting your deepest fears returns a favor unto himself... by turning us the other cheek

You're just a coat of red in hell. Tired of turning us away you might find I'm feeling all the guilt and now remember your heroes as a cancel out zero you were never the one to break away dragging out the hours, all deceived and now remember your heroes as a cancel out zero you were never the one to break free you turn your eyes to gray you turn your eyes away you you're another coat of red in hell. kill this child to made sure I've raised him well.

on a concrete road to recovery cause I'm knocking over every cone in front of me.