

Nothing To Remind Me

Cliff Richard

I see sunlight even in the dead of night
Everything is brightly colored since you came inside
Nothing seems to be the same way now
Everything I've known has changed somehow

I see rainbows peeping through my window pane
Since I met you baby I haven't touched a drop of rain
I bathe in moonlight every night I sleep
The tide of life has turned and it's running deep

I just realized it's you
That my aching heart is turning to
Cold, black days behind me
Nothing to remind me
There was once a time without you

Here I am, there you are
We two make one
And we'll depend upon each other
The way the moon depends upon the sun

I just realized it's you
That my aching heart is turning to
Cold, black days behind me
Nothing to remind me
There was once a time without you

I just realized it's you
That my aching heart is turning to
Cold, black days behind me
Nothing to remind me
There was once a time without you

I just realized it's you
That my aching heart is turning to