

The Difference In Me

Clique Girlz

Within these empty walls
I've been talking to myself again
You don't hear a word
But bother to explain it when

You say that I should try
But I feel I'm half alive
The rest of me is somewhere else

I wish the world would just spin faster
You told my happy ever after
You're looking at me
You're waiting to see
The difference, the difference in me
You keep telling me to grow up
Why should I it's never good enough
How could I be when you never
See the difference
The difference in me

I don't wanna fight
Don't care whose right or wrong anymore
I'm sick of all this pain
Can it be the way it was before

When I always made you smile
Seems it's been awhile
But now you're always out of reach

I wish the world would just spin faster
You told my happy ever after
You're looking at me
You're waiting to see
The difference, the difference in me
You keep telling me to grow up
Why should I it's never good enough
How could I be when you never
See the difference
The difference in me
The difference, the difference in me

You say that I should try
But I feel that I'm half alive
And the rest of me is somewhere else

I wish the world would just spin faster
Get to my happy ever after
You're looking at me
You're waiting to see
The difference, the difference in me
You keep telling me to grow up
But why should I it's never good enough
How could I be when you never
See the difference
The difference in me

I changed my hair

And I threw out my clothes
(Threw out my clothes)
You say you see but you
Don't even know
See the difference, the difference
The difference, the difference in me

I'm not the same as I was before
(Same as before)
I'm not afraid to walk right out that door
See the difference, the difference in me