

There's Nothing Worse

Close To Home

This night is alive with a hint of a smile,
And a long stare from your eyes,
I'm feeling weak at the knees,
It's getting harder to breathe,
I've waited all night just to say...

I have been waiting for the right time to say,
But the right time never comes,
Tell me why am I wasting every breath that I take,
On something that will never come my way

This lonely road that were sitting upon is getting longer by the day,
(It's getting longer by the day)
I cannot take anymore, I'm slowly losing control,
I've waited all night just to say...

I have been waiting for the right time to say,
But the right time never comes,
Tell me why am I wasting every breath that I take,
On something that will never come my way

You did me wrong
I have been waiting for the right time to say,
But the right time never comes,
Tell me why am I wasting every breath that I take,
On something that will never come
You take your time,
I've waited all night just to say...

I have been waiting for the right time to say,
But the right time never comes,
Tell me why am I wasting every breath that I take,
On something that will never come my way
My way
My way
My way
