

Thrones

Code Orange Kids

Tearing down the walls to digest real surroundings the thrones that we built couldn't hold such vibrant apathy.

Spent so many days begging for a god that could swallow me whole and now I'm only begging for you to drown within your own.

The higher the road, the harder fall to my place in hell.
(everything goes away, everyone goes away)
Time changes nothing we stand like stone

you owe me every single vow so sew shut your fking mouth