Inside

Inside your head I'd stroll around in synthesis And I'd find a way To connect all things

To search and roam around Take you far away To search and roam around Take you to another place

Inside your own illusion I stroll around the passages While I find a way To connect all things

To search and roam around Take you far away To search and roam around Take you to another place

So what I am dreaming of What about you So saturate Tell me what can I find here When you vanish in the air I get caught in the rain That falls in your doorway Chance is all you need You belong too No wasting time Overlook wrong decisions Or my confirmations So that I can be Collide
