

The Road

Conquest

Walking down the road of my life
I'm wondering what I've found
Years of sufferings and happiness
Years of dreams never come

It's so great to understand
That for now it's not the end
All the things I do have just begun
Never lose my special way
Always trust in words I say
That's the rule for searching the one

There are many ways for me to go
It's magic in real!
There are many things for me to know
And moments to feel

Always asking: why am I in it?
Why am I play this strange game?
But the voice inside is telling me:
There is no one to blame

All the fears from which I've run
And mistakes that I have done
Are experience for the future life
It's so great to understand
That for now it's not the end
So I have a chance to make it right
