The Coming

Count Raven

Listen Silence in the air, people are nervous, everyone is in fear This is the day the earth stands still, and the sinners they mu st beware All through history people have tried to solve its mystery And today you have, can you still tell me that you don't believ e

I don't believe my own eyes I see a door, it's open to paradise I see a new star coming in the black sky And now I know that I am never gonna die

The earth it starts to tremble as it draws its final breath A bodily chain reaction just like a man when he's near death People running scared, something sinister is in the way It's not science fiction, this is the final day

Cosmic laws they cease today This is the return to beginning of time And there is a new world coming out of Orion's belt And the strangest presence I have never felt

The signs been in the fields so long You wouldn't believe it, you couldn't receive it Talking of the Kingdom come You refuse to see it, best is to leave it It is right in front of your eyes Hatred increasing, nature is leaving Our course was locked in suicide Since the foundation, no more grief and tears

Shock waves start to ease down as our senses come to Preparations has begun for the old world and the new Imagine people from the past and the bastard future in the same place The four horsemen, the four dimensions, the same space

I don't really believe my own eyes I see a door, it's open to paradise I see a new star coming in the black sky And now I know that I am never gonna die Never gonna die Did you hear it? Never gonna die
