

Wall Of Stars

Crystal Eyes

In the forest of silver and haze where the children of yesterday play We sail away on a river of dreams bound to carry the night side by side

No tomorrow, no clouds in the sky Just the echo of time passing by We hold the moment and glide with the wind to wherever the stars may decide

Eyes of thousands are shining in the night for the power of sound in the neon lights Smoke and thunder, excitement and delight
The show has begun and the waves on the sea never end

We all come alive in the land of memories where our destinies unite in harmony Shadows of the night, young and old, stranger or not There's a room for everyone who come to the wall of stars

See the beauty embracing the beast to the magic of song in the breeze In the eye of the storm they are lost gazing over the field where spirits fly

I recall another day
I recall another place
No matter how far you go you'll always be heading home Immortal words in the wind sung by the stars will guide your way