

Time Is Right

Cuff the Duke

You never thought that they'd believe you.
How the mission started long before the war.
And all is calm above the northern line.
Except for the shaking sound the world makes all the time.

Even if you match it up with generated feelings of, the time to give and take is over due

So, let me know when the time is right
Just let me know when the time is right
Let me know when the time is right
Just let me know just let me know

You have not the heart to mourn
For you can't accept the loss of so many.
A prisoner in your lack of faith
A direction that you fail to ever take.

Even if you match it up with generated feelings of, the time to
give and take is over due

So, let me know when the time is right
Just let me know when the time is right
Let me know when the time is right
Just let me know just let me know