

The Mundane and the Magic

Dark Tranquillity

Seen through these dreamless eyes
Blind buildings storm through the sky
Silhouettes this dividing world
Guarding the eternal secrets

Where is the flame to haunt you,
And who do you answer to?
My lies are always wishes
Lies that make me
See beyond the rational
Accept the fate that nothing is meant to be
Be the least connected
Stay true to the last original

Apply layers to reality
Things only you can see
Add a beat to normality
To tap the core of insanity

I let my dreams cross over
To days of endless grey
If I could merge the mundane and the magic
We'd forge the new unknown
I let my dreams crossover
To nothingness and back again
If I could merge the mundane and the magic
Where is the dark I came to find?

In light of days as time will find you
Memories will never let you get closer
The silent sighs
The useless company
Wish for darkness and death again

In the face of ignorance and fear
I cast it right back
Some things were never there to begin with Objectivities you denied

Apply layers to reality
Things only you can see
Add a beat to normality
To tap the core of insanity

I let my dreams cross over
To days of endless grey
If I could merge the mundane and the magic
We'd forge the new unknown
I let my dreams crossover
To nothingness and back again
If I could merge the mundane and the magic
Where is the dark I came to find?