Take Me For A Little While

David Coverdale

Now my days are growing cold, All the memories unfold Thinking 'bout the friends we lost, Wondering how to count the cost, Now my days are growing cold

I can hardly wait any longer, Now the feeling's growing stronger Thinking 'bout the times we had, Good times always turn into bad, Now my days are growing cold

Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make me smile Why don't you take me for a little while

As I watch the rising sun, I see a new day just begun Thinking 'bout the sacrifice, Wondering how to pay the price, Now my world is growing cold

Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make me smile, make me smile Why don't you take me for a little while

So now my days are growing cold, All my memories been told Thinking 'bout the dreams we lost, Wondering how to count the cost Now my days are growing cold

Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make me smile Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make, me make, me make, me smile

Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make me smile. Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make, me make, me smile.

Why don't you take me for a little while, Sing me songs, you know, will make me, make me, make me smile. Somebody take me, take me, won't you make me smile...
