

Realize that what you have is more
Than one could afford to imagine
Self-centeredness will bring me down
You'll lose your heart

Every now and then I wonder
When my selfishness is over
We die too quickly

Every now and then I wonder
Shutters closed he didn't hold her
He has no family

Love is seeing someone next to us
Not trying to look away
Home is smiling to someone who knows
He chose the wrong way

Every now and then I wonder
Why people are dying of hunger
While we throw away full plates, pure ignorance

Every now and then I wonder
Why we tend to forget
It's a miracle we're living

Love is seeing someone next to us
Not trying to look away
Home is smiling to someone who knows
He chose the wrong way

Don't moan, skies are falling and it has all
Changed the direction of your hope
Just go between the love and hate it's your place to stay
Going remember that

Love is seeing someone next to us
Not trying to look away
Home is smiling to someone who knows
He chose the wrong way
