

One Heart

Dawn of Destiny

When the leaves were falling down and bright turns into dark
When reason turned the other way
When moments turn to years and no fire has a spark
When all the goods didn't wanna stay

Two eyes conclude not to go
Facing the wicked without fear
Willing to prove, willing to show
There is always a reason to stay here

But beats that heart so strong?
Can it prove they have been wrong?

One heart of torment, ache and agony
So much compassion leads to misery
One heart of love, joy, sympathy but pain
One single sunray in this world of rain

Feeling strong, not strong enough
All day long reamining tough

Feeling strong, not strong enough
They will drink your blood and they will hunt you every day
All day long reamining tough
They don't know your God and they will kill you anyway

Better leave this place
Run away from here

There is no other way
Nothing's left to believe in

One heart of torment, ache and agony
So much compassion leads to misery
One heart of love, joy, sympathy but pain
One single sunray in this world of rain

There is no other way
Nothing is left to believe in
All that we ever learned
Seems not to fit in this world

One heart of torment, ache and agony
So much compassion leads to misery
One heart of love, joy, sympathy but pain
One single sunray in this world of rain

One heart of torment, ache and agony...

One heart of love, joy, sympathy but pain
One single sunray in this world of rain...