

Let Down And Alone

Death By Stereo

In this time and place
In this day and age
A silent war is waged, for death, it knows no age
It's a killing field for all the pain they feel

All alone
Let them go
We abandon home
All the pain it brings
Eternal strength

Where once is money spent
No miracles are sent
All the promises you made already came and went
The innocence of child, you raped them all the while

All alone
Let them go
We abandon home
All the pain it brings
Eternal strength

Let down
And when we die, sing
We are alone

I'd like to smash this whole place
And shove it back in your face
And scrape you off my shoe
Just like the shit that coats all your words
And keeps you high on your throne
And pays the mortgage on homes
And feeds the mouth of hungry hookers, fancy cars, and boat homes

You'd better back up the boat
'cause when I'm slitting your throat you'll finally learn to see that we all die alone

And when you lie in your grave
With all the friends that you made
You finally learn to see you've always been
Alone
Let down
Alone
