Let Down And Alone

Death By Stereo

In this time and place In this day and age A silent war is waged, for death, it knows no age It's a killing field for all the pain they feel All alone Let them go We abondon home All the pain it brings Eternal strentgh Where once is money spent No miracles are sent All the promises you made already came and went The innocence of child, you raped them all the while All alone Let them go We abondon home All the pain it brings Eternal strentgh Let down And when we die, sing We are alone I'd like to smash this whole place And shove it back in your face And scrape you of my shoe Just like the shit that coats all your words And keeps you high on your throne And pays the mortage on homes And feeds the mouth of hungry hookers, fancy cars, and boat hom es You'd better back up the boat 'cause when I'm slitting your throat you'll finally learn to see that we all die alonoe And when you lie in your grave With all the friends that you made You finally learn to see you've always been Alone Let down Alone
