Open up my thoughts tell me if you see some meaning. Take me all apart. So that I can see the pieces.

And I could walk for miles.
And on every street
is the same scene.
Follow the telephone wires
until I feel this air beneath me.

Oh and if you don't mind, would you show to me the missing?
With my weak eyes
I would only see the missing.

Open up my thoughts
Tell me if you see some meaning.
Take me all apart,
So that I can see the bleeding.

Oh if you don't mind, could you show to me the missing?
With my weak eyes
I would only see the missing.

And I would understand (I could understand) if you show to me the missing.

And I could understand (I could understand) if you showed to me the missing.

And I would understand (I could understand) if you show to me the missing.
