Light will come to those who wait

From the shadows souls awake

For these are the days when the nations will bow at the coming king

All our kingdoms fall with the mountains

And our empires crash into the sea

For these are the days when the nations will rise for the comin ${\bf q}$ king

All gods children we will sing hallelujah

Hope will come to those who wait

As the heart of heaven breaks

For these are the days when the least of us all see the coming king

For these are the days when injustice will fall at the coming \boldsymbol{k} ing

There will come a day when this will all fall away And we'll be singing hallelujah