Child of the Universe

Delta Goodrem

I grew up to be myself Still I feel there's something else Look at all the satellites Get lighter in the sky

We meet and we divide The patterns made by human life Look at all the stars tonight They're brighter in the sky

Together we are all alone All trying to make it home

In this world if it's the only thing I've ever learned Is that everything you love can hurt And the only thing you are is a child of the universe In this world if it's the only thing I've ever learned Is that everything you love can hurt And with everything my freedom's worth I'll be a child of the universe

I am brave but I am scared I am lonely but I'm prepared We are all connected Without knowing who we are

Together we all roll on a stone All trying to make it home

In this world if it's the only thing I've ever learned Is that everything you love can hurt And the only thing you are is a child of the universe In this world if it's the only thing I've ever learned Is that everything you love can hurt And with everything my freedom's worth I'll be a child of the universe

In this world if it's the only thing I've ever learned Is that everything you love can hurt And the only thing you are is a child of the universe In this world if it's the only thing I've ever learned Is that everything you love can hurt And with everything my freedom's worth I'll be a child of the universe I'll be a child of the universe Child of the universe
