My Ally Anger

All the hate I feel All the anger filling me from within Makes my thoughts weak and slack And weakness always tends to hurt

Anger accompanies me And I feel its presence I hate my ally anger But I can not find defence

Christian is not worthy of being my enemy He is less than the stone I trample on I still can not find the point Why I waste so much time on hating you

Their belief leads them down I do not need to help them to die Their extinction is about to come All their lies are fading down forever

Now I am summoning the darkness And send my ally to lead you down No more mercy in my heart No more anger in my eyes
