And it feels like poison running through my mind An anchor of visions that just drags me down Try to run, but no one sees I'm withering when you are not around Try to move forward, to stand up straight But I fear that it's too late When you got your back against the wall and you feel all alone out there And the world crumbles around you It's not that I don't care It's just memories after all The history we shared But it's hard to make a breakthrough when we're breathing the s ame air You just can't expect me to always be there for you What you had is gone I'm moving on so fuck you For not making this go easy You never really could let go I know that I seem cold but I want you to know When you got your back against the wall and you feel all alone out there And the world crumbles around you It's not that I don't care It's just memories after all The history we shared But it's hard to make a breakthrough when we're breathing the s ame air It had only just begun when you decided to move on When you got your back against the wall and you feel all alone out there And the world crumbles around you It's not that I don't care It's just memories after all The history we shared But it's hard to make a breakthrough when we're breathing the s ame air When you got your back against the wall and you feel all alone out there And the world crumbles around you It's not that I don't care It's just memories after all The history we shared But it's hard to make a breakthrough It's not that I don't care When you got your back against the wall and you feel all alone out there

And the world crumbles around you

It's not that I don't care

It's just memories after all
The history we shared
But it's hard to make a breakthrough