

The Vow

Derek Webb

Oh, I don't wanna hide, I want some witnesses
To see the thing that I'm about to do
I'm gonna make some promises I cannot keep
But I will be held to, oh my god
I have a habit of getting in over my head
I just can't resist the locks and chains
It bounds me up to something that I can't control
That's bound itself to me and you

Oh, I can't see the day after tomorrow
I don't know the future, even still
I don't promise cause I know I'll always love you
I make my vow to guarantee I will

There's no amount of dough that I could make or lose
No amount of days that you could live
No sickness and no health until the day we die

That changes what I've said on this day

Oh, I can't see the day after tomorrow
I don't know the future, even still
I don't promise cause I know I'll always love you
I make my vow to guarantee I will

So let's go all the way, let's mix the money up
Let's paint the room and corner ourselves in I wanna take you out in 50 years from now and every night till then
And we will sing

Oh, we can't see the day after tomorrow
No, we don't know the future, even still
We don't promise cause we know we'll always love this
We make our vows to guarantee we will
We make our vows to guarantee we will
