Panic

Dilated Peoples

The difference between a hero and a coward?

There is no difference one time or another everyone's felt fear

It's what one person does that the other person

Doesn't do that makes him a hero but I'm about to step the fuck up

Yo panic y'all, back against the wall feel the pressure No way out, situation getting closer Time is ticking, walls are closin' Options narrow now, you're the one who's chosen

Panic, adrenaline rush master mechanic Play your position, blow wigs back with cannons Colors of rhythm no options left to chose from Co-operation can cock thoughts that's grouse me

Like, glock for murder with three strikes in Houston Or foreign countries that chop fingers for boosting Main objective, don't become an example Either run or get ran, stampede or get trampled

I spit hard and respect my guard Got vision like X-ray, that's how I read your card Yo we got the upper hand and still play by the book, the truth? It's always the last place you look, that's right here

Uh-oh, you feel that? That's the crowd staring That's the spotlights that shine that damn near blind Sing a swim-time kid, what's your first line?

I spit hardcore menace to flows
Time to panic for crews who don't rehearse for shows
'Cause yo this year it's time to reclaim game
Used to sit up in the shadows and rebel against fame

Until my peep worded me up, might have the mightiest touch And the only way to find out is to blow the fuck up I listened, put that thought under my wing and in my brainstem Now I think ink can bleed through paint pens

Or spray cans, dodging trains it's the panic zone East L.A. to the beach, welcome to the terror dome When the feelings gone, here comes artillery To penetrate my zone takes a mind of a military

Blown off exotic trees from Yosemite California's cannibus chance dodging felonies Melt my trees with heat, guns the remedy Do what I do? You might panic and call emergency

Set your own standards, not everybody can do what we do We can't do what everybody else does, alot of people get Comfortable playing follow the leader but if you want to see change You need to be the leader to follow, let's make it happen

Panic abandoned ship, iceberg titanic Time to steal fans from other groups they take for granted The way we came up nothing was handed So when we drop the mic it's hot pick it up, you might get branded

Might not like your plane the way we land it But get the job done and then some, so panic And it ain't the last, coming from the fast High-tech shit so feel the blast

Catch the wordplay, hype sends the survey
Instead of stripclub chop meats Monday through Thursday
Friday through Sunday, blown off the runway
Ev the Weatherman use words instead of gunplay

Perfect caintance, can't catch on radar Speak the truth yo don't run with traitors Equator hot, the Arctic cold Everything between turns to green and gets sold Earth, yo panic y'all

I remember when we used to have four seasons Now it's just like one, one season all year long man Let's take care of this place

Push the panic button shit it's, Evidence I can kill it from the West Coast to the Atlantic Evidence, oh Evidence, yeah Worldwide respected, so give me mines or meet your deathwish, panic

Call it panic
