

And morning came upon me and asked was I looking for a new day But deserving as I was, I flagged t he morning away
And white hunger pains shot through my cupboard like bullet thr ough a tear
At this time of morning, I've always wished I was dead...