Truth Begins

Dirty Pretty Things

This is where the truth begins
Where teardrops glance the sallow skin
You lose your will
And I can lend you mine

The Westway wall?s so tall and bleak Reflect the words we dare not speak By the bottle?s end We may have done our time

What you want is to stay away from people like me Who twist most everything they see
And leave the gray old world behind you

So sow it up, kid, have some clout We?ll do some wine and fall about The sun will shine again tomorrow Oh, oh, oh, we?ll look beyond the parapet We are just bums lest you forget We can beg, steal and borrow

Well, you say the pills will sort me out Embolden me against The manifestations of fear and doubt I just forgot who I used to be

So, now I?m strung
Somewhere between a dream
And the humdrum day to day routine
A laurel wreath on the door to my heart

What you want is to wash your face and try to breathe Forget your mind and shut your eyes so that you can see And leave the gray old world behind you

So sow it up, kid, have no doubt
We?ll walk the line and have it out
The sun will shine again tomorrow
Oh, oh, oh, for all the friends you've ever met
Some you?ll love and some forget
Just hold on for tomorrow

So here?s to now and all of us With our sweet hearts we tried to make a brand new start May the fabric never tear us apart

And some day when we're in the cold Here's a semblance we can hope So pick a posy and put it on your heart for me

So, now I move and if you?re in It wouldn?t hurt just to give it a try and win Don?t forget who you're meant to be

What you want is to get a bike and do wheelies But I bet you can?t do ?em half as good as me Throw it out when it's over, it's over So sow it up, kid, have some clout We?ll go to mine and sulk about How the sun will shine tomorrow For all the friends you?ve not yet met Some would die for you, I?ll bet So hold on for tomorrow

So sow it up, kid, have some clout We'll go to mine and fuck about The sun will shine again tomorrow For all friends you've not yet met Some would die for you, I bet So hold on for tomorrow

This is where the truth begins For more than seven deadly sins And even though I may have hurt your mind