Prayer For Love

Dissolving of Prodigy

As the cold penetrated in my body And I heard the child's crying, Then the strange woman I saw And in her arms my soul infatuated the sorrow.

Ah no, I departed, departed and lost my love. In a dream I saw her my dead body to embrace. I mourned for her, yes, mourned and hoped That in my new being I would find her perhaps.