Follow me, take my hand, to a place where skies are blue. If you dare we could share things wild and new. Just unwind, free your mind, all the places we can see, if you just take the time to come with me.

Come feel the love, hands up if you feel the love.

Come feel the love, together we'll make it if you feel the love.

As the day turns around, as the sun goes down, I prey, that the love in my heart will find a way. For the faith that we share in the hope of all thats true, I would travel the world to be with you.

Come feel the love, hands up if you feel the love. Come feel the love, together we'll make it if you feel the love.
