

Found You

Django Django

I've seen your face in better days
How times have changed
The seasons come and go
Even so it's strange
You're looking just the same
You've come around again
To claim and call in what I owe you

Take what you want, take anything
I can't believe you finally returned
I was so naive
To sign along the line
But now I've changed my mind
I broke the deal that we agreed on

The hammer falls to roars of laughter
The jury calls you had no answer
Take one final last look around you
You'll never know just how I found you

I've heard my name spoken in veins
So many times
You called, well here I am
What is yours is mine
There's nothing you won't tell
But I don't want the wealth you've made
That's not what I returned for

Who lit the charge
Played all the parts
Surely we knew
That I just found the flames
Time to see this through
You opened up the door
And let me in before
Look up
There's everything to play for

The hammer falls to roars of laughter
The jury calls you had no answer
Take one final last look around you
You'll never know just how I found you

I've seen your face in better days
How times have changed
The seasons come and go
Even so it's strange
(I've seen your face in better days)
You're looking just the same
(How times have changed)
You've come around again
(The seasons come and go)
To claim and call in what I owe you
(Even so it's strange)
I've seen your face in better days
How times have changed
The seasons come and go

Even so it's strange
(I've seen your face in better days)
You're looking just the same
(How times have changed)
You've come around again
(The seasons come and go)
To claim and call in what I owe you
(Even so it's strange)
