

Further

Django Django

I still hear the drum we used to beat
It's still like the wind amongst the trees
On the edge of town
When the sun went down
Light and silhouette makes such a scene

Where's everybody gone?
This used to be the place
Drifted far, the path now I can change
If you could only see
How it used to be
Feel it rushing over diamond breeze

Try to do it but always the same
You're walking under just a little bit further
Think about it, but no one to blame
Talking enough 'til my skin gets harder

Try to do it but always the same
You're walking under just a little bit further
Think about it, but no one to blame
Talking enough 'til my skin gets harder

Car lights fall across the darkened land
Shine them down so we know where we stand
Always said we went too fast
But lost it on the bend
Hide up in the trees, you'll find our names

Now we walk further fields
It never felt so real
But we were in the distance of a place

Try to do it but always the same
You're walking under just a little bit further
Think about it, but no one to blame
Talking enough 'til my skin gets harder

Try to do it but always the same
You're walking under just a little bit further
Think about it, but no one to blame
Talking enough 'til my skin gets harder
