

Falling To The Ground

EarlyRise

You're wasting your life waiting Waiting for it to come You do nothing to get there You just sit there waiting numb

You're the prisoner of your own doubts Surrounded by enemies Selfish pride with your last breath Eventually willing to give in

You're falling to the ground (I'll be waiting down there) Waiting for your crash (This time I won't help you) I won't miss you so take care

You watch everyone around you Think about the life you could've had You just sit there like a stone Seems like that's what you do best

You won't even take a small step You chase your tail instead of your dreams So I'll take this small step for you And put you out of misery

You're falling to the ground (I'll be waiting down there) Waiting for your crash (This time I won't help you) I won't miss you so take care