

Plain As The Pain On My Face

Eddie Rabbitt

The honky-tonk hero
Met the honky-tonk girl
She took him on a heartbreak ride
All around the world
So, bartender, don't ask me why I'm sittin' drinkin' in this place
It's as plain as the pain on my face

She had a set of red lips
Burned a hole in my heart
She had a way of holdin' me
That really tore me apart
But, bartender, don't ask me why I'm lookin' like a hopeless case
It's as plain as the pain on my face

Well, it's as plain as the pain runnin' like rain down my cheek
And I cry from the lies I never saw in her eyes when she made love to me
So, bartender, don't ask me what I think about the human race
It's as plain as the pain on my face

Well, it's as plain as the pain runnin' like rain down my cheek
And I cry from the lies I never saw in her eyes when she made love to me
So, bartender, don't you ask me what I think about the human race
Ooh, it's as plain as the pain on my face
It's as plain as the pain on my face
