

Sunrise in Eden

Edenbridge

Along the banks of astral silence
The Honey Rivers flow
Time seems standing still before my eyes

The velvet sound of the ocean waves
White sand underneath
In the land of eternity

The old bridge tells a story
Of long gone centuries
And the gardens of a king far away

The palms around they whisper
The sacred holy rhymes
To keep legends alive

Endless the night awaiting the morning
Awakened by a dream
The moon touches the sky
While the light catches my eye I'm beholding
The stars seem to shine more intensive than ever
Enlightening the path in the dark
And then the horizon is visible for me
I'm breathing

The heartbeat of the paradise to feel
Sunrise in Eden
And Aurora greets the day
Wishing afterglow away
To let the magic kingdom shine in light
An endless flow in Elysian Fields
Sunrise in Eden
And I'm holding on once more
To the moments I long for
To the ageless beauty of a world that sleeps