

Turning Around

Edwin McCain

Yes all the vampires know my name
But they don't treat me quite the same
I've pulled the leather from my eyes
I've put all the stars back in your skies

I'm turning this life around
I broke all the chains that used to tie me down
I'm turning this life around before it's over

Said goodbye to ego and the shame
There's no use in hiding in that fame
I've pulled the leather from my eyes
I've put all the stars back in your skies

You can't tell the lover from the lies
Because they come in such a beautiful disguise
