

Divers In A Hurricane

eleventyseven

Would you just let me know
'Cause I'm hurting
And I'm wondering
Was it all just a show?
Did you ever believe it?
Why'd you leave it?
Why did it cost all your friendships to find peace of mind?

'Cause we are drifting apart,
Like divers in a hurricane,
Made it out to space,
But then the rockets separate
And you begin giving into the extraordinary ordinary life.

Not so long ago,
We were best friends,
Young and innocent,
Now you're caught in the undertow,
And coming up gets harder underwater.
How are you living convinced in your heart that it's wrong?

'Cause we are drifting apart,
Like divers in a hurricane,
Made it out to space,
But then the rockets separate
And you begin giving into the extraordinary ordinary
life.

If you believe in your steps then why aren't you watching where they fall?
If you believe in your choices why do you make them in the dark?
It's hard to get through to you,
When your mind is in another groove.

'Cause we are drifting apart,
Like divers in a hurricane,
Made it out to space,
But then the rockets separate
And you begin giving into the extraordinary ordinary
life.
