

Who's right and who's wrong
I've no interest in that
What's the reason for war and where is the victory?
What I want to know
Isn't anything that lofty

It's how far must we reach out both our hands
To touch someone?

You're lucky and I'm wrong
I've no intention of saying that What's the future of the planet and the meaning of life?
What I want to know
Isn't anything that lofty
Neither is it anything that ordinary

It's how far must we reach out both our hands
To touch someone? Hey, surely
It's just how far must we reach up with our right hands
Before someone sees us?

We don't know anything
But we just want to know we're not alone

It's how far must we reach out both our hands
To touch someone? Hey, surely
It's just how far must we reach up with our right hands
Before someone sees us?

We just want to know
We're not alone
