

Shades of Gray

Endless Blue

We were young, barely nineteen
We were in love, well not really love
Something extreme
Extreme enough in complexity

We tried our best, not to change
Or when we changed, to make it the same
Same as us, or the same
So we could believe

When we danced in shades of gray
Holding hands with nothing to say
Lowered eyes have turned her way
One last dance in shades of gray
In shades of gray

Silent storms hanging above
Deafening sounds are not really loud
But loud enough to keep down
Oh, I cannot breathe

But then you left on the thirteenth of May
You took my years and threw them away
Well maybe not years, but all those days
That I couldn't be free

When we danced in shades of gray
Holding hands with nothing to say
Lowered eyes have turned her way
One last dance in shades of gray

Leaving behind the ??
Holding me close ??
????
???? mistake
And I lose the other way
????

When we danced in shades of gray
Holding hands with nothing to say
Lowered eyes have turned her way
One last dance in shades of gray

When we danced in shades of gray
Holding hands with nothing to say
Lowered eyes have turned her way
One last dance in shades of gray

So we danced in shades of gray
Holding hands with nothing to say
Lowered eyes have turned her way
One last dance in shades of gray
In shades of gray
In shades of gray
Last dance in shades of gray
In shades of gray

In shades of gray
