Sine Qua Non

Enthroned

One thought of loss of what is clear a unique species, an endless source without which there is nothing... without which it could not be One thought of loss of what is clear a unique species, an endless source without which there is nothing... without which it could not be