

Rise of the Destroyer

Ereb Altor

Oden's warriors in the hall up high
Prepared for the final battle of fire and ice
Their world will die, only the serpent remains

The signs are clear, in our sins we will walk
The new battle will commence, fighting in vain
The snake of deceit, the sworn enemy
Now dwells within you and dwells within me

He will rise (rise again, rise the destroyer)
Rise again, rise the destroyer

We were born to follow the blind
To embrace the snake within us all
The new world will also die
Only the ashes will remain

In the fire I will scream, in the darkness I can see
In my dreams I can scent the flesh in fire
In the fire I will scream, in the darkness I can see
In my dreams I can scent the flesh in fire
In the fire I will scream, in the darkness I can see
In my dreams I can scent the flesh in fire
In the fire I will scream, in the darkness I can see
In my dreams I can scent the flesh in fire

All mankind will burn, when the serpent will rise again
And the screams will fade, and never to be heard again
The serpent will rise again, the serpent will rise again

All mankind will burn, when the serpent will rise again
And the screams will fade, and never to be heard again

This silent place we have left behind
Biding its time to be born again
Beneath the ruins, awaiting to spread his wings
And for chaos to reign supreme

He will rise (rise again, rise the destroyer)
Rise again, rise the destroyer
He will rise (rise again, rise the destroyer)
Rise again, rise the destroyer