

You Need Some Lovin'

Eric Carmen

You've got your cocaine in your Gucci shoes
You've got your Palm Springs tan in the New York News
You don't like champagne but you take another sip
Inside your private club for the tragically hip

And tonight's just another
In an endless string of one more nights

You need some lovin' to get you through the night
You need some good man to make you feel right
You need that tender touch in the red dawn light
You need some lovin' to get'cha through the night

You're lookin' for a romance
But you're in the wrong place
You feel that hunger but you know you can't taste
So you find some substitute but it leaves you so cold
Too many heartaches, well, they're making you old

And tonight's just another
In an endless string of one more nights

You need some lovin' to get you through the night
You need some good man to make you feel right
You need that tender touch in the red dawn light
You need some lovin' to get'cha through the night

Sailin' 'round the room on your vanity
Dreamin' your unlimited dreams
But your stockings kinda look a little
Frayed around the seams

Here comes tomorrow, it's later than you think
You blew your brains out in the bathroom sink
Look in the mirror and see between the lines
You can run forever but you can't stop time

And tonight's just another
In an endless string of one more nights

You need some lovin' to get you through the night
You need some good man to make you feel right
You need some tender touch in the red dawn light
You need some lovin' to get'cha through the night
Get'cha through the night
Get'cha through the night
Get'cha through the night
Get'cha through the night