The sun means day and night for us is resurrection. Wings of years don't save our weakness. The bells of churches our joy, our care.

The room is darkened I can't hear the voice. The dream is alive and I see you all of us again.

I crossed the dark and I see the past, here am I?
Maybe I'll breathe maybe I'll stay with you or beyond the gate?

We're smiling and crying, your name sounds in our ears. I don't believe, I'm on the way between the death and eternity and I'd like to wake in your kingdom on one day. We're just puppets you haven't changed us, we're afraid in your arms.