Desoto '55

Everyone Dies In Utah

Do you remember that summer I remember it just fine With the top down, when we crossed the state line You were kinda sad, and I was almost mad The sun had run and the clouds begun to rain on our parade But you weren't sad that long, you kept singing that song And to this day I remember the way it, the way it went along

You are the only one who walks Down the hardest roads To prove that I'm what's worth fighting for What's worth fighting for

Remember the time we went downtown Went searching for drinks but I found the wedding gown And just for fun you tried it on and I was simply knocked down Gladly enough the world kept spinning And madly in love my face kept grinning 'cause I I heard you singing that song So in the middle of that store I simply sang along and it went

We took a stroll to your favorite park The sky so dark, just look at Look at all the stars, they Could never shine bright as you, my darling babe

You are the only one who walks Down the hardest roads To prove that I'm what's worth fighting for What's worth fighting for

And though I don't see Why you love me, you're still my only one You are the one