

Reflection

Fade

Once my heart was bright inside a world so full with faith
But it all withered like vapor into a mist
Shading my life in black and white
Every color faded from the world

So just show me the way, the way, the way
Like sunlight spilling through the clouds
So just show me the way, the way, the way
'Cause everything is black and white inside my heart

Some may say the shadows of the night can terrify
But darkness of the heart is beyond compare
Never knowing when that night will end
Living still with faith morning will come

So just show me the way, the way, the way
Like sunlight spilling through the clouds
So just show me the way, the way, the way
'Cause everything is black and white inside my heart

Show me the way through this confusion blocking the sunlight from view
This light's still stranded inside of me

So just show me the way, the way, the way
Like sunlight pouring through the clouds
So just show me the way, the way, the way
'Cause everything is black and white inside my heart

One day I'll see through this confusion blocking the sunlight from view
And let my heart be the reflection because the sunlight is you
