

Headstand

Failure

Sunlight through the dust
Someone to make you understand
You can ask the rust
I've always been your headstand

And I know it's been too long
And I want you back again

One more time in the warm jets
One more time in electric light
I'll get my toaster
You get your shaker
The simulation's 'bout to meet its maker

And I know it's been too long
It goes so slow when you can't see
And now I know just what you meant
But the whole world says you're bad for me

And I know it's been too long
And I want you back again