The Apparition

Fates Warning

When the stars are right and you're alone Take a journey, lock the world up tight Out of your mind. The hall beckons your presence, the doors Open wide you're to decide to turn back. Deep the bowels of this black abyss, Compelled I just can't resist it, take me.

Take me away take me away I wanna know what's deep within Take me away.

Drawing near someone passes through me, A silent entity never looking back I won't dare. Evil eyes staring through he walls of stone As I feared I travel not alone. Laughters echoes with the blatant wind I have passed the threshold deep within me.

Take me away take me away I wanna know what's deep within Take me away.

A voice of thunder said turn back Tabernacle is forbidden. No mortal dares to enter here. I want to know.

Flame is burning center of a fountain yearning, waters Spring eternal, spiritual water physical fire. Above the center is sky, cold cold neverness Just vastness filled with stars upon stars. In the four corners of life are the golden mirrors Reflecting what you are and what you are to be.

In the first is a young boy white dove in His hand, in the second is a warrior in armour, In the third is the old man gold watch In his hand fourth and last No reflection at all No reflection at all No reflection at all

Waters rise toward physical fire, voice says Tabernacle is forbidden never looking back I don't dare. If the water touches the flame Forever in darkness yes I'll remain. White dove flies from the young boys hand Through the mirror of the old man, only way out

Take me away take me away I wanna know what's deep within Take me away.
